This diverse range of industry stimulates a deep occupier pool for industrial accommodation within Milton Keynes from tenants who are typically less sensitive to rent, meaning they can afford higher rents due to the nature of the business they operate in.

OCCUPATIONAL MARKET

Milton Keynes is a core and established commercial hub, with occupier demand driven by its excellent proximity to the A5 and M1, its rapidly growing population, thriving economy and proximity to other major UK cities.

Milton Keynes has benefitted from a number of Grade A new build developments which have been the driving force in realising a significant uplift in the city's rental tone that has impacted and will continue to positively impact rental growth on good quality second hand units. Prime rents locally now stand at £16.50 psf compared to a blended headline rent of £9.73 psf on the subject estate, highlighting the significant reversionary potential of the asset.

INVESTMENT MARKET

Investor sentiment towards the UK industrial sector remains extremely positive, with demand for core multi-let industrial holdings remaining particularly strong. There remains a significant weight of money seeking to invest in the sector, with investors attracted by the following fundamentals:

Severely constrained supply of existing stock and development pipeline.

Occupier demand remains resilient, despite macroeconomic headwinds, underpinned by structural trends such as the shift to e-commerce and last mile logistics. These supply / demand dynamics continue to result in excellent rental growth prospects.

Low maintenance and refurbishment costs relative to competing sectors.

Significant forecasted population growth which will further amplify the need for industrial space.
